CEREMONY IS INTERCEPTEDOfficer Rushes to the Altar to Prevent Marriage of Thirteen-Year-Old Girl.

MAYSVILLE, Ky., Nov. 25.—Just as Rev. B. F. Chatham was in the act of pronouncing Mr. Thomas Gilbert and Miss Alleen Alexander, both of Rome, O., man and wife, Tuesday evening at the county clerk's office, an officer rushed in and stopped the ceremony, stating the bride-to-be was only thirteen years old and was under age. The young couple had eloped from their home in Ohio and came here to get married, but the father of the young Miss telephoned to Chief Ort to stop the marriage. Miss Alexander was taken in charge by the police chief and held until Wednesday when her father came and took her back home. The youthful couple's disappointment was shown in copious tears after the ceremony was interrupted, and as they were leaving the clerk's office young Gilbert said: "Don't cry Alleen, the day is coming."

In order to procure the necessary license the bride managed in some way to secure a long skirt which was worn over her short dress.

FIGHT AGAINST
PRESIDENT DIAZContinued By Francisco I. Madero
Who is Leading the Revolutionary Movement in Mexico.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Nov. 25.—Francisco I. Madero, who is leading the revolution in Mexico, completed his plans in relation to the present outbreak after his arrival in this city October 7. He left here on November 18 and crossed the Rio Grande to his own ranch in Mexico Sunday, November 20, where he took command of six hundred men. Upon his arrival in San Antonio last month he was surrounded by revolutionary forces, although he disclaimed warlike intentions until he left the city.

Madero was met here by Juan Sanchez Azcona, former member of the Mexican Congress, who is also a brother-in-law of Juan D. Casasus, former Ambassador to the United States, and by Enrique Bordez Mangel, an orator for the anti-Diaz party in Mexico. Azcona is a graduate of Harvard University.

Madero showed himself rarely and claimed to be opening a campaign for the presidency six years hence.

He has close friends here and was enabled to purchase a large quantity of arms and ammunition, this fact not being known until after the revolution broke out. The Madero estates of Coahuila extend many miles along the Mexican side.

During his operations here Madero talked freely of his opposition to the Diaz regime, but denied complicity with the revolutionary junta.

The Madero family is the wealthiest in Northern Mexico. The leading banks in that section are controlled by the Maderos and their ability to raise ready money is said to be great. The loyalty of other members of the family has never been questioned with the exception of the father and brothers of Francisco. The vast resources of this branch of the family are supposed to be available for the use of the leader in the present outbreak.

CLERKS REMOVED
FROM SERVICERemoves are Result of Gross Irregularities in the Weighing of Newspaper Mails.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 25.—Postmaster General Hitchcock Wednesday ordered the removal from the postoffice service of Edward F. Blodgett, Superintendent of Stations, and of James F. Norton and S. S. F. Giles, clerks, all in the Atlanta postoffice, as a result of gross irregularities in the weighing of newspaper mails.

The Department announced that a general investigation of the methods of weighing second class matter is now being conducted by the inspectors. Because of inefficiency, the Superintendent of the Railway Mail Service at Atlanta, L. M. Terrell, was transferred by the Postmaster General's order to a minor place in the service. Superintendent G. W. Pepper, of the railway mail division, having headquarters at Cleveland, probably will be assigned to Atlanta to succeed Terrell.

Clyde M. Reed, Superintendent of the Division of Railway Adjustments in the Postoffice Department, was sent to Cleveland to take the place of Superintendent Pepper.

The evidence obtained in the investigation at Atlanta has been submitted to the Department of Justice, which will determine the question of prosecution.

EXAMINING TRIAL
OF ADAM RHEILWho is Charged With Attempting to Poison his Parents, is Held in Cynthiana.

CYNTHIANA, Ky., Nov. 25.—The examining trial of Adam Rheil, charged with attempting to poison his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rheil, which was held before County Judge King Wednesday morning, resulted in the judge holding Rheil over to the grand jury at the February term of the Harrison county Circuit court and his bond was placed at $1,000. The evidence showed that young Rheil purchased the poison, saying it was for a neighbor, who wanted to kill some rats. The poison, which was strychnine, was purchased at a local drug store. Mr. and Mrs. Rheil, father and mother of the boy, were made sick from drinking water from a cistern and an analysis of the water showed it contained strychnine. The poison was put in the cistern at night and judging from the quantity of it that was found on the top of the cistern and on the pump, the person who did it was in a hurry. The parents accuse the boy of the attempt to kill and declare his motive was to get them out of the way so that he would come into possession of his part of his father's estate. The elder Rheil is worth $40,000 or $50,000. Young Rheil is about 30 years of age, is married and has two children.

DOE ATTACKS
GIRL HUNTERMabel Halverson Narrowly Escaped
Being Trampled to Death By Wounded Animal.

MOOSE LAKE, Minn., Nov. 25.—While hunting near her home Mabel Halverson, daughter of H. O. Halverson, narrowly escaped being trampled to death by a doe. She was walking through the woods when the doe jumped up in front of her. She raised her rifle and fired, and succeeded in breaking a leg of the deer, which then dropped.

Thinking she had killed it, she walked up to it, and as she was about to lean over it the deer jumped up and struck at her with its fore feet, knocking her down. She recovered herself before it could get up again and not daring to take time to reload, she took the butt of the gun and beat it on the head.

The doe, enraged, retaliated and it seemed for a time as if the plucky girl hunter would have to make a run for it. She got in one good smash over the deer's eyes, however, and although the rifle was shattered to bits, the doe wilted, and Miss Halverson, with the dexterity of an old-time hunter, cut its throat.

The animal tipped the scales at 150 pounds.

PADUCAH, Ky., Nov. 25.—After two hours' deliberation the jury in the $50,000 damage suit of C. W. Rucker, of Metropolis, Ill., formerly police judge in Eddyville, Ky., against Dr. David Amos, A. L. The two suits of A. H. Carlin against William Neal, another alleged night rider, and L. M. Wood against Dr. Amos and other alleged night riders for $25,000 damages each, were dismissed for lack of proof. The $25,000 suit of Maggie Seruggs against Dr. E. SEARCHING FOR
HER DAUGHTERMrs. Butler Coeburn, of Thompson Station, is Using Every Means to Locate Her Daughter.

Mrs. Butler Coeburn passed through here Friday morning on her way to Thompson Station from Cincinnati, where she has been for the past two days hunting for her daughter, Miss Myrtle Cline who left her home in October for Cincinnati to marry a man by the name of Mr. W. L. Wilson.

Miss Cline was on a visit to her brothers near Stepstone and met Wilson. Later Wilson came to the home of Miss Cline and they arranged to be married and left for Cincinnati where the ceremony was to have been performed. Instead of marrying Miss Cline, Wilson put her in a room and kept her locked up for several days. As soon as Miss Cline could, she wrote her mother and told her the condition she was in. As quickly as possible, Mrs. Coeburn left for Cincinnati and engaged the services of the police and detective departments and a search of the city was made for the missing daughter, and Wilson, but nothing had been heard of her when Mrs. Coeburn left for her home.

Miss Cline was about 23 years of age and was held in high esteem by the citizens living near Thompson Station. Every one speaks well of her and are assisting Mrs. Coeburn in every way possible to locate her missing daughter.

Wilson is a traveling man who has lived at Stepstone, near the home of Miss Cline's brother, for several years and every one supposed him to be a good citizen, and Miss Cline's mother agreed to the marriage and assisted her in the preparation for her trip to Cincinnati.

Following is the pathetic letter written by Miss Cline to her mother: "He has not kept his promise. He has not married me, although he promises day after day. I am beginning to fear, dearest mother, that I have made a terrible mistake. I have thought over it, and now I cry all the time. Last night I cried all night. I fear there is only one way for me now to expiate the mistake. I have always feared death, much the same as I was frightened in the dark when I was a little girl. But now death is the brightest object in my life. I am going to end my miserable existence with a bullet, if he does not make things right by marrying me. God will know. Go do too merciful to punish a poor blighted thing who seeks to make reparation by her own death. And those at home will know I meant well, and was not bad from choice. They will know that my body is in the graveyard near home, and that I expiated my mistake. Mother, pray for me, for if my marriage is not to be had within a few hours I must go where there are no tears."
